ITIL v4

There has been a great deal of anticipation and speculation around the forthcoming upgrade to ITIL® service management.

Axelos are always looking at its suite of best practice products to see if they need improving to bring them in line with current day best practices in the industry.

Last year saw an upgrade to PRINCE2 project management and this year it's the ITIL framework that gets a refresh.

More announcements will be made in August as to the

2nd Birthday

Story so far

August 2016, QRBMC first started trading so this month we are celebrating our 2nd birthday. There have been some worthwhile landmarks on our journey so far.

Year 1 was mainly a foundation year, getting ourselves established and building up our client base for delivering best practice frameworks. This has been the strength of our consultants over the years and was a natural place to start.

Year 2 started in much the same way, then as 2018 began we added the DevOps foundation course delivery to the portfolio. In March 2018 some significant events occurred that has changed our service offerings significantly.

QRB became an Accredited Training Organisation (ATO) for PRINCE2.

A major milestone for us was to be a recognised ATO by Peoplcert the global accreditors of PRINCE2.

This has given us the flexibility to deliver PRINCE2 courses to our clients directly and have our own schedule of public courses.

Russell Parker became an approved trainer for the Gamingworks simulations.

Gamingworks provides business simulations, Russell attended the sessions for project management, service management and DevOps. Now our courses incorporate these simulations.

PRINCE2 courses include the Challenge of Egypt simulation and clients have already booked ITIL foundation courses with an extra day for the Apollo13 simulation.

Learning has become a great deal more fun.

QRB on Tour

The #qrbontour is becoming more popular this month. QRB have been to Dublin, Worcester and London delivering a variety of courses and workshops. August has been a time for working around our base in Northamptonshire getting prepared for our next tour dates in September.

New Website

This month has seen us launch our new website with our sparkling new logo. Many thanks to the people at Green Umbrella Marketing their help.

Special thanks to our very own Silke Kost with all the effort she has put into getting the new website designed and online.
